From The Editor...

Dear Class of 2007:

We have successfully navigated rough waters over the last several years. Upon entering medical school, no one expected an easy time; however, if the true magnitude of our undertaking were to be laid out in detail at our feet, many of us may never have started. The fact that we have gone through this process slowly placing one foot in front of the other, and gradually working through the necessary steps to finally reach our current status is a testament to our personal constitution. While at times it seemed we were alone in the world, immersed in a new culture that required of us a different language and continued stamina, in truth we always had each other.

Not a single one of us has obtained our current state in isolation. We have relied on many people since our first day at Jefferson, including some whom we had never imagined would stand by our sides. We were united with a small group of people first year, sharing our time and our stories over a cadaver that somehow became our own little world. We began to sit in the same cubicle or at the same table in the library, so that by the end of second year we knew the route to where each of our friends sat. Each of us was surprised to find that there was someone in our class we had never spoken to, but would become our closest friend during six weeks of a shared rotation. All of us worried about the Boards, shared study tips with complete strangers, critiqued our lecturers (if we attended class), and got lost in our own struggle to accomplish our goals.

Now is the time to look back and realize how much we have grown not by ourselves, but with each other. This book is a small sample of our path through Jefferson Medical College. I sincerely hope that it captures the people and the moments that have made your journey memorable. Please remember all of the faculty, staff, students and the many others at Jefferson that have been by your side throughout this process. We have made it this far, and I am sure that we will persevere in the future as well. It has been my distinct honor to help compile this book, but more importantly to be your classmate. I wish you all the best of luck in the future.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Pete Moffett', with a long horizontal line extending to the right.

But yield who will to their separation,
My object in living is to unite
My avocation and my vocation
As my two eyes make one in sight.
Only where love and need are one,
And the work is play for mortal stakes,
Is the deed ever really done
For Heaven and the future's sakes.

A black and white portrait of a young man with dark hair, wearing a suit and tie.

I think I have a special kind of hearing tonight.
I hear the neighbors upstairs.
I hear my heart beating.
I hear one thousand hearts beating
at the hospital.
And one thousand hearts
by their bedsides, waiting.
Saying, 'That's my love in the white gown.'

We are not lost in the mortal city.
We are not lost in the mortal city.

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived. This is to have succeeded.

Mom and Dad-Thank you for all of your love, support and especially for letting "me be me". I could not have achieved this without your guidance.

Vince-Thank you for being my partner in NFL crime and the best younger brother I could ask for. I hope I can continue to make you as proud as you have made me. Hold my ticket for the home opener...

Giuseppe-Sei il mio cuore, la mia vita e il mio futuro. Ringrazio il Dio giornaliero per averli nella mia vita. Non sarei la donna che fossi oggi senza voi! Ti amo XO

And to my grandfather, Joseph F. Tabasco MD (Jefferson class of 1950) to whom these past four years, as well as the rest of my life as a physician, are dedicated.

To Pop-Pop - Jack L. Weinstein, MD who initially inspired me and to my friends and family - Mom, Dad, Sam, Jonathan, Zachary, Eli, Greg, Denise, Haley, and Emily - who have loved and supported me enabling me to realize the dream, learn the science, and perfect the art of medicine. THANK YOU!

Dear Members of the Class of 2007 of Jefferson Medical College,

It is hard to believe that the time is approaching when you will cross the stage, receive your Doctor of Medicine degree from our beloved College, and embark on the next step of your journey towards preventing and healing disease, and relieving human suffering. I remember my first discussions with you during orientation, your White Coat Ceremony, Parent's Day, our Acid Base discussions, and our day together trying to understand medical errors. Having watched you develop as medical students, I now welcome you as colleagues sharing our wonderful profession of service.

You have all changed, certainly grown and matured in your confidence as clinicians, but other dimensions of who you are have not changed. The motivation that brought you to Jefferson was a desire to serve others, using your special talents and gifts to make better the lives of others. We have merely taught you how to live that commitment in medicine. Always remember to grow in knowledge and skill, but never lose sight of that desire to care for others that brought you here four years ago.

If you are like me, you will read through this yearbook with increasing nostalgia as the years go by. You will review the yearbook before and after each reunion, watching your classmates move through life, always remembering the special memories you will share forever. And, you will smile as you look back at those times as some of the most difficult, some of the most enjoyable, and some of the most rewarding of your life.

Treasure this book. But more importantly treasure what it represents. The coming together of gifted, caring young people pursuing an ideal; the sharing of a rich educational experience; and the start of lives apart that remain inextricably linked not only to each other, but to Jefferson, forever.

My wish for you is that each time you think of Jefferson, those fond memories return, and that you retain, as I do, the special feelings for the living institution that provided you the opportunity to develop your skills in service of others. I hope that the core value of altruism remains at the heart of your personal and professional careers. Most importantly, I pray that your dreams come true.

And remember, you are now a part of Jefferson, forever.

Warmly,

Thomas J. Nasca, MD, MACP

ALPHA OMEGA ALPHA HONOR MEDICAL SOCIETY

Jefferson Medical College, Alpha Chapter of Pennsylvania

Alpha Omega Alpha, or AOA is a national medical honor society. As established by the national organization constitution, each chapter may select one-sixth of each class among academically eligible (top 25% GPA) junior and senior students. Once meeting this criteria, each candidate must prepare an application and then new members are chosen based upon academic, personal, and service criteria. The chapter may also select several housestaff, faculty and alumni each year.

PRESENTATION OF THE PORTRAIT

of

DALE BERG, MD
Associate Professor of Medicine

by the
CLASS OF 2007

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE

Jefferson's time honored tradition of selecting a faculty member to be painted began with the Jefferson Medical College Class of 1861. This class chose Charles Meigs, MD, Professor of Obstetrics, for the occasion of his retirement. The portrait was a gift to Dr. Meigs and a copy of the portrait was donated to Jefferson Medical College by his son, John Forsyth Meigs, MD, in 1880.

The highest honor that faculty members can receive is to be chosen by the Jefferson Medical College senior class to have their portrait painted. The portrait is then presented to Thomas Jefferson University during a presentation ceremony. It was the wish of Samuel D. Gross, MD (painted by Thomas Eakins in The Gross Clinic) to have faculty members honored in this manner. The graduating class bestows this honor onto a faculty member who has demonstrated outstanding contributions to their class and the medical college.

An anatomical dissection of the serratus anterior muscle. The muscle is shown in a deep dissection, with its characteristic fan shape and fibers clearly visible. A rose and a violet are placed on the muscle to illustrate its innervation. The rose is red, and the violet is blue. The long thoracic nerve is shown innervating the muscle. The text "Best wishes to the Class of 2007 from the Division of Anatomy" is overlaid on the image.

Avi,

Your first steps.

Your first solo ride on a bicycle.

Your first 1,000 piece jigsaw puzzle solved without using the box cover.

We watched your competence and independence grow with each milestone and accomplishment in your life. You never ceased to marvel, and neither did we.

And now this.

What can we say?

Our joy and pride is utterly beyond words, and our love for you is absolutely without condition.

Be happy kiddo!

We love you dearly!

--William Wordsworth
from "Intimations of Immortality from Recollections of Early Childhood"

Dear Nicole,

When you graduated nursery school, your vision of the world was one of awe and inspiration. As you grew and matured, you saw the world for what it is, and for what it could be, and you let nothing stand in your way of learning how to make it a better place for everyone. Your kind heart, your compassion, and your intelligence have led you to where you now are given the opportunity to help everyone, to a place where in "every common sight," you can see "the glory and the freshness of a dream." May you always look at the world for its goodness, and may you never forget how much you are loved, treasured, and respected by your family and friends.
